What to do before applying

Make sure you have added all your legal qualifications and jurisdictions in [mySRA \[https://contact.sra.org.uk/mysra/\]](https://contact.sra.org.uk/mysra/) within 'My profile'. Take care when adding jurisdiction details, including date of qualification to your profile in mySRA. You will not be able to apply for an exemption until you do this.

You must have been admitted as you cannot set this as a future date.

To do this, you will need [to create a mySRA account \[https://contact.sra.org.uk/mysra/get-mysra-account/\]](https://contact.sra.org.uk/mysra/get-mysra-account/). If you already have one, you will need to [log in \[https://contact.sra.org.uk/mysra/\]](https://contact.sra.org.uk/mysra/).

Making your application

Once logged into mySRA select 'Start new applications' on the homepage. The application is called 'Apply for qualified lawyer exemption from the SQE assessments'. You will then be asked a series of questions.

If you have already started it you will find your draft application in 'My profile' under 'Applications and documents'.

Once you have submitted, you cannot apply for another exemption under the same application. For example, if you apply for SQE2, you cannot use the same application and fee to then apply for SQE1 later.

We will let you know our decision on the agreed SQE2 exemption within 180 days. However, it is likely to take significantly less time.

Please be aware that if you apply for an individual SQE1 exemption, alongside the agreed one, it can take us the 180 days to decide on the whole application.
