

SRA Update

Issue 131 - October 2024

- General updates [#tab_49311]
- Compliance updates [#tab_49312]

Welcome to the latest issue of SRA Update. The window to renew practising certificates is now open until 31 October. We have lots of information on how to renew, whether that be through bulk renewals or looking after your own practising certificate. Contributions toward the compensation fund are increasing, following a significant increase in the number and size of interventions into firms in recent years; but practising fees remain unchanged. Also in this issue, read our new Business Plan outlining our focus for the year ahead.

The window during which all solicitors need to renew their practising certificates is now open. If you are handling your organisation's bulk renewal application, we have helpful information on our website. This includes all the application questions and a useful video to help you plan what information you will need before submitting.

[\[https://contact.sra.org.uk/mysra/fees/current-fees/\]](https://contact.sra.org.uk/mysra/fees/current-fees/)

When renewing your practising certificate, you will need to pay your annual practising fee and compensation fund contribution. Practising fees for individuals remain unchanged from last year, while required compensation fund contributions have risen. You can check the fees for 2024/25 and learn more about how firm fees are calculated on our website.

Our 2024/25 business plan outlines our key priorities and areas of work for the year ahead. Following consultation and stakeholder feedback, the new business plan takes into account new and emerging risks in the sector. It also includes an added commitment to do further work around improving information on price and quality for consumers.

September webinars available on demand

[\[https://contact.sra.org.uk/sra/news/events/on-demand-events/\]](https://contact.sra.org.uk/sra/news/events/on-demand-events/)

If you missed the two free webinars that took place during September, they are now available on our website. Our webinar on improving retention and progression looks at how organisations can better support employees, while our qualified lawyer webinar provides guidance for overseas or UK qualified lawyers looking to also qualify as a solicitor of England and Wales.

Solving legal issues through technology

[\[https://contact.sra.org.uk/solicitors/resources/innovate/solving-legal-issues-technology/\]](https://contact.sra.org.uk/solicitors/resources/innovate/solving-legal-issues-technology/)

A new project aims to understand more about the opportunities technology provides to enhance access to justice through online dispute resolution (ODR). Funding from the Regulators' Pioneer Fund (RPF) will support work to explore how technology can help tackle unmet legal needs for various groups that cannot access ODR. Find out how we've been gathering feedback throughout the summer.

Updated resources to help you comply with transparency rules

[<https://contact.sra.org.uk/sra/news/press/2024-press-releases/updated-resources-comply-transparency-rules/>]

We have issued a suite of new and updated resources to help law firms further improve the information you provide to the public. Not only will these resources help you comply with our rules, but they will also help make sure the public can make more informed decisions when they need legal support.

First sanctions penalty relating to Russia

[<https://contact.sra.org.uk/sra/news/sra-update-131-first-russia-sanction-penalty/>]

The Office of Financial Sanctions Implementation (OFSI) has imposed the first monetary penalty for sanctions breaches relating to Russia. The case emphasises the importance of voluntary disclosure, which did not happen in this case.
